

HEROES OF AKRON DIED CHEERING EACH OTHER

TWENTY PERMITS TO HANDLE BEER ISSUED IN DIXON

Council Grants A Score Of Licenses Last Evening

After 7 o'clock Friday morning when the new city licenses become effective, Dixon will again become dripping wet. At last evening's weekly meeting of the city commission a score of permits were granted for the dispensing of 3.2 beer and wine, seven of this number coming under the classification of wholesale dealers and the remaining 13 as retailers. The new malt and vinous beverages ordinance becomes operative Friday morning at 7 o'clock according to Mayor Dixon, who has expressed himself as being opposed to any all night celebrations welcoming the return of the alleged non-intoxicating beverages. Those who complied with the requirements of the new ordinance, filing bonds of $200 and recommendations as to good moral character and standing in the community, were as follows:

Retail Dealers
William James, 107 Peoria ave.
William L. Covert, 113 First street.
Ideal Cafe, (Andrew Karydes), 105 First street.
William M. Loftus, 105 Galena avenue.
John E. Lowery, 93 Hennepin avenue.
Arthur Miller, 601 Depot avenue.
Agostino Filippone, 105 North Galena ave.
Henry J. Wenger, 703 Depot ave.
Emanuel Nicolosi, 121 Galena ave.
Harold Durham and Duane Pentland, 111 Hennepin ave.
Leo J. Curran, 705 Depot ave.
Scott Hull, 87 Galena ave.
Joseph J. Tahan, 623 Depot ave.

Wholesale Dealers
J. M. Brady, 608 Chicago ave.
J. Forest Suter, 302 East River st.
Walter C. Knack, 305 First st.
John Follows, 311 Eighth st.
Fred Hemmen, 117 Peoria ave.
John McIntyre, 703 Fifth st.
N. J. Gianonni, 203 Monroe ave.

Vote Was Unanimous
The council voted unanimously to grant licenses to all of the applicants. Commissioner H. A. Brooks being absent from the meeting because of illness. Immediately following the council's action, Mayor Dixon commented upon the dispensing of places for the dispensing of malt and vinous beverages as follows:

"Important changes in Federal and state laws make necessary a new ordinance governing sales of legal beer and wine of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content, officially declared non-intoxicating, but that is a debatable question. The ordinance places licenses issued thereunder in charge of the Mayor. I have furnished a copy of the ordinance to each applicant and had one sent to all licensed soft drink dealers, whom it also affects. There should be a definite understanding about this ordinance.

"The Council's attitude favoring reasonable license fees and regulations must be met by unlimited cooperation of the dealers and others whom it affects.

"Generally speaking, I believe better results come from reasonably liberal regulations and respect of the individual liberties of the people, subject to the ordinary laws of decent conduct and common security. It is better to permit the people to enjoy themselves as long as their conduct is within the law.

"Spiking Forbidden
"There must be no misunderstanding about the provision that beer and wine, or any intoxicating liquor, must not be sold or furnished to anyone under 21 years old, and the persons must not loiter around license premises or remain there except for legitimate purchases. By the ordinance the burden of proof of age is shifted to the defendant to prove the person's age by satisfactory evidence, if it is questioned. Proprietors must keep their places of business free from suspicion or criticism and the provision prohibiting disorderly or immoral conduct on their premises is worthy of their serious thought. The practice of 'spiking' beverages by the use of alcohol applies to all licenses under this ordinance, and to soft drink parlors and also to customers.

"The authority of inspection of licensed premises, given to the police department, does not indicate a policy of interference with legitimate business, but it is a valuable reservation of authority for the city for use on proper occasions.

"Persons receiving licenses will be held responsible for all conduct at their place of business and in turn should fix the responsibility among their employees. I know an alert person usually can tell what is going on in the place of business and if things go wrong there, there should be no surprise if the city officials are suspicious of a plea of ignorance of what the proprietors or their employees should have known about and stopped.

Line Is Clear
Wholesalers and retailers are told by the ordinance where the dividing line is and each of them must remain in their own territory. I hope that this ordinance will be accepted and given a fair trial and that there will be no conduct where the security of any license may be imperiled, but if that occasion arises the law will take its course.

SEVERAL HUNDRED COOK CO. UNEMPLOYED LEAVE FOR ILL. CAPITAL TO MAKE DEMANDS ON GOV. HORNER

Chicago, Apr. 4—(AP)—Several hundred unemployed left Chicago by automobile and truck today for Springfield to make demands before Gov. Henry Horner for additional relief allocations, unemployment insurance, and moratorium on home and farm mortgages.

They departed under the banner of the Unemployed Council with Karl Lockner, chairman of the city as their leader. There was a steady downpour of rain as they prepared to leave. Many of the "hunger marchers" carried bundles of lunch.

Lockner said they would arrive in Springfield tomorrow, spending the night at a park near LaSalle and Peru, Ill. He did not divulge the exact location of the proposed camping place.

Before the motorcade departed the following telegram to Governor Horner was made public by a group of prominent citizens:

"In view of published reports that hunger marchers will be refused entrance to Springfield by local sheriffs we appeal to you to see that their constitutional rights of assembly and petition in the state capital city are recognized."

The message was signed by Clarence Darrow, Rabbi Louis L. Mann, Arthur Fisher, Charles W. Gilke, Robert Morse Lovett, Wiley W. Mills and Curtis W. Reese.

The fee for judges and clerks serving for the township election was temporarily reduced from $5 to $4 for the days services. Marian Myers presided as acting secretary of the session. Foreign Scribes Defy Hitler Gout

Berlin, Apr. 5—(AP)—A conflict between the federal government and the Foreign Press Association, representing about 135 foreign correspondents of more than 20 nations, has arisen over the government's decision to boycott the association as long as Edgar Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News remains as president.

Mowrer's book, "Germany Puts The Clock Back," which appeared a month before the appointment of the Hitler government, was regarded as so offensive by the cabinet that Mowrer was informed no invitation for any function of the association, not even to the traditional annual banquet, would be accepted.

The association by an overwhelming vote declined to accept Mowrer's offer to resign.

It is the terminus of the Tela Railway, which is 130 miles long and runs through an extensive fruit development.

Tela is a modernized town with fairly modern docks and harbor improvements.

INVESTIGATION OF CEMENT BIDS SENATOR'S PLEA

Moline Republican Introduces Move In Senate Today

Springfield, Ill., April 5—(AP)—Senator Martin R. Carlson, Moline Republican, introduced a joint resolution today calling for a legislative investigation of the identical bids submitted to the state by six cement companies.

Gov. Horner recently issued a statement expressing surprise at the "shocking unanimity" of price in the bids submitted by the cement manufacturers. The average bid on the state's requirement of 3,000,000 barrels of cement for the ensuing year was $1.62 cents a barrel as compared with last year's price of 94 cents.

Carlson's resolution was referred to the Senate Executive committee. It provides for the appointment of a committee of five Senators and five Representatives.

Senator N. M. Mason, (Rep. Oglesby), in whose district many of the cement plants of the state are located, defended the price submitted to the state. He said last year's price was not "a fair one" in that it resulted from extreme competition and was far below cost.

The chain store license bill, which was on third reading in the Senate, was sent back to committee for further hearing.

The revenue chamber passed a deficiency appropriation of $100,000 for the state auditor's office and sent it to the House.

Michigan Delegates To Vote 99 To 1 For Repeal Monday

Springfield, Ill., April 5—(AP)—Before a roll call was reached on the beer regulatory bill, the House today postponed consideration until 3:30 P. M.

The licensing and revenue measure, early enactment of which has been asked by Gov. Horner, had been assailed by extreme anti-prohibitionists for more than an hour. The attack was led by three Republicans, Leroy Green of Rockford, Frank McCarthy of Elgin and Richard Lyons of Mundelein.

Springfield, Ill., April 5—(AP)—Attacks against provisions for state regulation of the sale of legal beer were started at noon today when the administration-sponsored beer bill was called up for final passage in the House. No attempt was made to recall the measure for further amendment.

Leroy Green of Rockford and Frank McCarthy of Elgin, Republicans, led the assault on the bill, declaring that the sale of beer should not be state regulated but left to the local communities with small fees so as to provide for unlimited distribution.

McCarthy told the House that the bill would foster metropolitan racketeering.

"Only last week," he said "racketeers who had been selling liquor to speakeasies told the proprietors that even after the return of legal beer the speakeasies must sell gang products."

The administration Democrats, whose total strength at 79 is two more than necessary to pass the bill without its emergency clause, sat silent during the Republican oratory. None of the prohibitionists took the floor.

Elmer Schnackenberg of Chicago, minority leader, joined the attack saying:

WISCONSIN FOR REPEAL FOUR TO ONE IN ELECTION

Michigan Delegates To Vote 99 To 1 For Repeal Monday

Milwaukee, Wis., April 5—(AP)—At Wisconsin's constitutional convention three weeks hence the vote for repeal of the 18th amendment will be unanimous.

Returns from yesterday's election showed a 4 to 1 vote in favor of wiping out the prohibition amendment. The results, with 1,462 of the 2,899 precincts tabulated, was:

For Repeal 325,702
Against 74,551

Prohibitionists conceded that repeal had elected every one of their 15 candidates to the April 29 convention. Anti-prohibition leaders expressed jubilation, declaring the overwhelming victory would energize their cause in other states.

"We are off to a good start," said Dr. J. J. Seelman, Milwaukee chairman of the Wisconsin Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. "The vote in Wisconsin, coupled with the splendid victory in Michigan, marks the beginning of the end of prohibition. The tremendous majorities for repeal in these two states indicate that states which have been in the doubtful column can now be placed in the repeal column."

Milwaukee did about as expected—voting 12 to 1 for repeal. In 233 of the city's 483 precincts the totals were: For repeal 59,398, Against 5,041.

But other cities were on Milwaukee's heels. Green Bay went wet by a ratio of 11 to 1, while Kenosha swung to repeal 7 to 1.

In the deluge, Rockland village in western LaCrosse county stood out in dry contrast. It voted to retain the eighteenth amendment by a count of 44 to 38.

MICHIGAN 99 TO 1

Detroit, April 4—(AP)—Ninety-nine "ayes" and a lone "no" apparently will be Michigan's answer to the question of national prohibition repeal when its constitutional convention assembles next Monday.

The one dry delegate is from rural Barry county. His margin was 233 out of 7,662 votes cast.

In half a dozen other counties where returns from Monday's referendum lagged, dry candidates had the slenderest of chances but those pledged to repeal held what seemed to be safe leads.

As for the rest of the state, rural and urban alike, the wet majorities staggered even the most optimistic of anti-prohibition campaigners. Detroit was in the van, voting down the eighteenth amendment by more than eight to one, but there were several six and seven to one majorities.

For the state at large, with six-sevenths of the more than 1,000,000 votes tabulated, the total was: Wet 754,838; dry 243,030. That (Continued on Page 2)

MACON AWAITS WORD TO TAKE TRIAL FLIGHT

Fate Of Bold American Bid For Supremacy In Balance

Washington, April 5—(AP)—The fate of the boldest American bid for commercial supremacy in the air hung in the balance today as the nation took stock of the disaster that befell the sky queen Akron.

For just 18 months the giant craft was supreme as the largest, finest and most complete ship of its kind ever built. She represented the last word both in German Zeppelin building skill and adaptation of Yankee inventive genius to the science of aviation.

Even as she fell to her tragic end, however, her sister ship, the Macon, marking dirigible construction refinements born of the building and operating experiences with the Akron, awaited in her hangar the word that would launch her upon an initial trial voyage.

While these two ships were built and carried on a Navy basis as combat craft, a major purpose behind construction was exploration of the trans-oceanic commercial possibilities of these mighty liners of the air.

Such pioneering work underlay the purely naval purposes for which they were authorized. The Akron and the Macon were free from the international agreement that made the German-built Los Angeles only a commercial vessel. Thus they have afforded opportunity also for Navy tests of the military usefulness of such ships as long range scouting craft and bombers.

Private funeral services will be conducted from the home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The funeral service will be conducted from St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2:30, Rev. Lloyd W. Walter officiating, and with interment in Oakwood.

Easing Of Gold Embargo Planned

Washington, April 5—(AP)—President Roosevelt is prepared to ease the gold embargo to permit licensed exchanges of gold for necessary commercial transactions.

An executive order has been prepared and probably will be signed today.

The President will continue the firm executive hold on the national gold supply to prevent foreign raids or domestic hoarding, but otherwise the gold embargo will be lifted.

By the order the Secretary of the Treasury will be authorized to permit its free exchange again under a licensing system.

Steel-Making Is Picking Up Slowly

Indiana Harbor, Ind., Apr. 5—(AP)—Steel-making at the Inland Steel Company plant, it was revealed today, is proceeding at a higher rate this week than at any time in the preceding eighteen months.

Several orders for sheet metal for two large automobile companies and substantial rail orders, with some demand for structural steel, are on hand.

Inland has opened four more open hearth units, doubling its previous activity, to meet the demands of the rolling mills.

Beer Is Barred At Joliet-Stateville

Joliet, Ill., Apr. 5—(AP)—Return of beer won't mean a thin to convicts of Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries.

Warden Frank D. Whipp announced today relatives of prisoners may continue to visit them once every two weeks, bringing food and tobacco—but no beer.

The Warden reported a preponderance of wet sentiment among the inmates.

FIRST OF TREE PLANTERS TO GO TO CAMP WILL BE RECRUITED IN LARGER CITIES: TO PICK 25,000

Washington, April 5—(AP)—The first 25,000 men who will form part of the conservation corps, will be sent to military camps for conditioning beginning tomorrow.

Quotas from which this first detachment will be drawn have been fixed for 17 cities.

President Roosevelt by executive order today made available $10,000,000 to finance the beginning of work. His order took the money from unexpended construction funds.

The first contingent will be selected from among men most in need of help and whose circumstances

SEARCH OF SEA FOR BODIES OF MEN CONTINUED

Hope That Any Of 71 May Be Alive Is Now Abandoned

New York, April 5—(AP)—The troubled waters off the Jersey coast today held most of the evidence which might lead to determination of the cause of the airship Akron's crash at sea with a loss of 73 lives.

But official forces moved swiftly to use what little evidence and direct testimony was still available toward solution of the secret of history's greatest tragedy of the air.

Lieut. Commander Herbert V. Wiley and the only other survivors, M. E. Erwin and Richard Deal, were ordered to proceed at once by air to Washington to report to Rear Admiral Pratt, Chief of Naval Operations. After being rescued from the sea they were brought here yesterday and spent the night in the Naval hospital.

The only physical evidence for investigators to study was held by the Navy here, a section of bent ventilating tube, the only piece of wreckage from the great ship recovered.

But there was still hope that more wreckage might be found off the Jersey shore to serve as mute testimony of the tense moments when Wiley stood calmly in the Akron's control room and realized that a crash was inevitable.

Ships and planes coursed back and forth across the stormy waters in ceaseless search for anything which might give some hint as to exactly what caused the Akron, caught in a fierce electrical storm to descend so rapidly that there was only an interlude of 30 seconds between the moment when Wiley gave the order to stand by for a crash and the time when the Akron struck the water.

Another object of the search was to recover bodies of the missing airmen, but this part of the search was no longer spurred on by any hope that more survivors would be found.

As the search went on this morning the report came in from the scene of the disaster that the little Navy blimp J-E, which also crashed in the waves, while on rescue duty, had sunk during salvage operations. Two men were lost with the J-E and five were saved.

Made Brief Report
Wiley made a brief official report by wireless while on his way to the hospital yesterday and later gave an interview in which he painted a dramatic picture of the crash and expressed the opinion that the Akron had not been struck by lightning. At that interview, however, he declined to discuss technical possibilities concerning the crash and it was assumed at naval headquarters here that it was for a detailed statement along this line that the survivors were called to Washington.

One voluntary witness presented himself at naval headquarters this morning to tell of passing the airship at sea 23 minutes before the crash. His was Second Officer A. Mulke of the liner Algonquin and he said that at 12-10 A. M. yesterday the Akron was about 1,000 feet up, proceeding steadily, and apparently in no trouble despite severe lightning, thunder and rain. No wireless message was received from the Akron and so the Algonquin continued to New York, not learning of the crash until hours after it happened.

Sea Is Quieter
The sullen seas, whipped by vicious thunderstorms early Tuesday morning when the Navy's silvered air mistress crashed down, had quieted, making the task of the searching ships less difficult than yesterday.

Coast Guard boats, one of which recovered the body of Lieutenant Commander Harold E. MacLellan yesterday, were ordered to extend their search southward today, but to patrol closer to shore. The body of MacLellan is the only one which has been found as the search resumed today.

Doubling Up Color

Hollywood—Two fabrics of the same color fashion many of the new spring-like things about Hollywood these days. On a sunny afternoon the other day, Miriam Jordan wore a black and white ensemble, the seven-eighths coat of white velvet, collared in fox, the simple, tailored dress made of white pebble crepe. The dress had two new spring fashion notes—a silver belt that was very ornamental and kick pleats in the skirt, giving a straight line effect.

Others about this week who looked tremendously smart include: Diana Wynyard, at the Coconut Grove, wearing a gray wool crepe evening dress, with matching silk crepe alternating with the wool in the gown.

More White Outfits

Marie Carlisle, in the Brown Derby, late one night (escort unrecognized) wearing a crisp white frock with a velvet cape trimmed with white fox.

Jean Marlow, at Agua Caliente, wearing white slacks, a white double breasted jacket and a navy blue skull cap.

Dorothy Jordan, playing tennis, in a sleeveless white linen dress, with a narrow red ribbon tied around her hair.

Florence Eldridge, entertaining at home with her hubby, Fredrick March, at a buffet supper after the theater, wearing a ruffled black taffeta dress.

Three handsome Easter choices, any one of which might well suit you to a "T". The Gibson Girl blue suit (left) with wide shoulders and a pert pepum. It is topped by the latest go-to-fer hat. Softly dressmaker, is this chaste green and gray striped woolen suit (center), with short sleeves. Very new is this black gilette suit (right), with diminutive fitted jacket with great pointed revers, faced with the red, black and white printed silk of the blouse. The hat is the new Maria Guy coachman's model.

Don't Let Junior Be Imposed Upon

There are many times that children playing together should be let alone. In fact it should be the general policy followed with most child play.

But there are times that call for intervention on the mother's part. And a little drama I witnessed one day in the winter was one of the times.

Gale, 10, and Lenny, 8, were the actors. Enter Gale with his sled. Instantly Lenny wanted to go along.

"You can't come along. We're going away, way off. You better play around here somewhere."

I want to go with you and the big boys. I haven't anyone to go with. Willbur's got the carache."

"Well, if you come alone, will you promise to pull my sled up the hill? And I tell you—you can stand at the corner of College Street and tell us if a car's coming. Will you do that, if I let you go?"

"Yes, I'll do anything you tell me to if you'll let me go."

Hard Life for Junior

I am sorry that the second and third act had to be left to my imagination. But I could guess. Lenny would hang on to the edge of the crowd, running their errands letting himself be pushed out of the road, submitting to any kind of treatment his brother and his

Washington Has Beautiful Buildings, Cherry Trees, Now

Thousands of school students, tourists, artists, photographers and others who make pilgrimages to Washington when the Japanese cherry trees are in bloom, will this month find a vastly-transformed national capital as well," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"An active building and beautification program that dates back more than a decade has begun to take form in huge new government structures, libraries, scientific society headquarters, boulevards and parks. From Capitol Hill to the Lincoln Memorial and from the Potomac to the Cathedral, visitors will miss many old landmarks, and will find many new edifices and cleared areas in their places."

Much Construction in Progress

"In contrast with the rest of the country, too, Washington is still a city where the rattle of jiving machines, the rumble of concrete mixers and the whistles of hoisting engines are still heard as new buildings take form from structural steel and stone."

"In the neighborhood of the Capitol the dazzling white marble walls of the incomplete Supreme Court Building now flank the Library of Congress on the east side of the Plaza. The Library, itself, has a new wing under construction; while back of it is the Folger Library, a marble structure housing the nation's finest collection of Shakespeareana. On the south side of the Plaza rises a second House Office Building, while the U-shaped Senate Office Building has been made into an approximate square."

"All the district between the Capitol and the Union Station has been cleared of unsightly war-time buildings, and in their stead is a beautifully landscaped park, with a fountain and terrace. Hidden beneath the park lies a large garage which has helped to solve the parking problem in the area."

A New Street Parade

"Pennsylvania Avenue, the street of parade, has a new rival in Constitution Avenue, formed by widening B Street and by cutting through several blocks of houses and buildings. Constitution Avenue runs directly from the north side of the Capitol to the Potomac River, near the Lincoln Memorial. Along it are the new Justice, Interstate Commerce, Labor, Department of Commerce, Internal Revenue and Public Health Buildings."

"The last three are completed, and the others are in various stages of construction, as is also the National Archives Building, near the site of the old Center Market. On Pennsylvania Avenue, beside the tower of the old Post Office Department Building, a new structure to house the activities of this Hollywood—Gay sweaters topping plain skirts are the preferred color touch in Hollywood's sports things right now. And most of Hollywood flaunts brilliant colors or stripes, in these sweaters.

Shirley Grey wears a red, white and blue sweater with a white skirt and long white swaggar coat. The sweater blouse is white, with red, white and blue striped sleeves and scarf.

Lunching with Ernest Schoedsack in the RKO cafe, Fay Wray wore a black wool skirt and a white silk knitted sweater with a bold design in black, also black and white sports shoes.

Others wearing plain skirts and gay sweaters lately include:

Frances Dee, lunching at the Ambassador Hotel with Russel Gleason, wearing a brown wool skirt and a very bright orange wool sweater, a brown hat banded in orange and brown and brown sports shoes.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, at Lew Cody's corn beef and cabbage dinner with Jack Oakie, wearing gray slacks and a pale yellow turtle-neck sweater with gray accessories.

Lona Andre, just stepping off the train from San Francisco, dressed in a white sports suit with three-quarter swaggar coat, and a gay yellow sweater and a huge bunch of yellow daffodils in her hands.

branch of the government is being finished.

"Across the Mall from this group rises the new Department of Agriculture administration building, with huge auxiliary structures running down toward the railroad district along the Potomac. Here is being constructed also a central heating plant for government offices in this part of the city."

"The huge Department of Commerce building was finished last year. Visitors will find in its basement a unique aquarium that contains living specimens of many important food fishes and also various types of tropical and gold fishes raised in home aquariums."

The Cathedral Adds a Transept

"On Sixteenth Street, three blocks above the White House, are the recently-enlarged headquarters of the National Geographic Society, and, a little farther north along this thoroughfare, the cascades of Meridian Hill Park. Norway and Japan have joined the new embassy district on upper Massachusetts Avenue with handsome buildings housing their staffs. A new transept has been added to the Washington Cathedral, where Woodrow Wilson and Admiral Dewey are buried."

"Potomac Park, where 21 years ago the first Japanese cherry trees were planted by Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the President, has been extended by a new riverside drive from the Lincoln Memorial to Georgetown. This drive faces former Anacostan Island, now Theodore Roosevelt Island, in the Potomac, which was presented to the government last year by the Roosevelt Memorial Association to become a shrine to the late President, Rock Creek Park, which cuts a green swath through the capital, is being enlarged, so that it will soon be possible to drive from the Potomac River to the Maryland line entirely in parked cars."

"During the past year, too, the Arlington Memorial Bridge across the Potomac was opened to traffic. This beautifully-arched span now links the Lincoln circle with a new approach to Arlington Memorial Cemetery, and with the Mount Vernon Boulevard to Alexandria and the home of the First President."

An article in the Illinois Voter the League's monthly publication, just out, entitled "The Merit System, 1883-1933" by Leonard D. White, Professor of Public Administration, University of Chicago and member of the Chicago Civil Service Commission, is particularly timely now when House Bill 337 and House Bill 381 if enacted will limit and repeal, respectively, the State Civil Service Act. Professor White points out that "the necessity for the merit system in the public service of this country was never more acute than it is today. Waste and incompetence were never less defensible." It seems incomprehensible that the Illinois taxpayers and citizens should continue to allow the wasteful practice of training anew every four years thousands of public employees chosen because of their political pull and friendship. It seems certain that if they understood the present proposed legislation threatens what benefits they have been able to obtain through the State Civil Service Act they will oppose passage of the bills directed against it.

As Professor White points out "our government staggers under a heavy burden" and "states like Massachusetts and cities like Cincinnati stand a constant challenge to their less fortunate sisters."

THE LURE OF OPEN SPACES.

It is a strange thing, the way an artfully-chosen photograph can set the mind roving.

Mr. Ordinary Citizen sets out for his job on a spring morning. The early sunshine and the crisp breeze, chilly but carrying a promise of warmer weather a little later on have already done things to him; made his question, perhaps, the wisdom of a life that keeps him pent up in a town all the time, led him to draw again that old dream of some day living on a place in the open country.

Then, opening his newspaper, he spots a photograph of one of those "open country" scenes that editors like to present once in a while; a picture, say of a valley in western Montana, with tumbling mountains in the distance and a fringe of trees by a little stream in the foreground.

And as he looks at it he suddenly discovers that a town is a poor sort of place for a man to live. The fine new buildings, the busy streets, the lines of factories and railway yards and so on, things which ordinarily seem to him to be matters for a proper local pride—now they have become artificial devices by which he is cut off from contact with his own earth, they are obstacles in his way and he pays for their presence by an unfulfilled longing for the sort of thing of which the photograph speaks.

And this, in turn, is apt to set him speculating about that sparkling new dream which technologists have been revolving lately. Some of these men have remarked that the era of the great city is about over; that in the future all men will live on the doorstep of the open country, with factory units broken up and decentralized, with electric power pulling industrial and rural areas closer together, so that no worker will any longer be held a prisoner by any town.

Now all of that, to be sure, is a long way in the future, and Mr. Ordinary Citizen probably has moments in which he wouldn't care much for it anyway. But a spring morning, a revival of the old, perennial discontent, an ordinary photograph of a western valley—they can act powerfully to set a man's mind adrift from its moorings. They invite his inner self to play the truant.

LEGALIZING BETTING.

A somewhat saner attitude toward "blue laws" is beginning to become apparent in various parts of the country.

The state of Ohio, for example, has just passed legislation legalizing horse racing and horse race betting; and before you start deploring such a step, consider the situation that existed in Ohio in years past.

Ohio had horse racing—lots and lots of it, year in and year out. These races, obviously, were conducted to the tune of a vast amount of betting, all perfectly open and without concealment. Yet the betting was entirely illegal.

The result was that Ohio had all of the evils that go with race track gambling—and a lot of other evils besides. The betting was entirely unregulated; county officials either winked blithely at the law or were quietly bribed to look the other way; and the state failed to collect a very sizable revenue which it will get under the new law. The change simply means that Ohio has repealed a law that wasn't enforced anyway, and has, thereby, ended a lot of graft and hypocrisy.

PROTECTING THE INVESTOR.

That President Roosevelt's plan to institute strict governmental regulation over all new security issues will meet with strong public support goes without saying.

It is possible that that would not have been the case a few years ago. We weren't ready, then, to admit that investors need federal protection from those who are trying to get their money. We were riding on the crest of the wave, and the mere suggestion that any but an important percentage of the new stock and bond issues could cost buyers their shirts was looked upon as perverted and unpatriotic.

Since then, though, we have had our fingers burned; and we shall emerge from the depression with our whole machinery for handling money, loans, investments and the like on a much sounder basis than ever before.

BEER AND FOOD HABITS.

Will the advent of legalized beer bring a change in the habits of restaurant patrons, thereby causing a change in the kind and quantity of food the restaurateurs must keep in stock?

Fred A. Simonsen of Detroit, president of the National Restaurant Association, believes that it will.

The popularity of certain dishes such as heavy meats, fish and cheese will increase, he believes, while fewer sweets will be sold. The man who sits down to lunch with a schooner of beer at his elbow is not apt to ask for a cream puff to go with it; a hot roast beef sandwich or a vast slab of cheese is more likely to be called for. For beer, as a general thing, demands as an accompaniment solid food and plenty of it.

The worst harm of the moderate drinker is that he kills so many people on our roads through the fact that he thinks he is fit to drive an automobile.—Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, treasurer of the W. C. T. U.

The monkeys chattered long and loud. "My, but they are a happy crowd," said Windy. "They love coconut. That is why they feel so good."

"It is well to let them have a treat, but we should watch how much they eat. A tummyache they will get if they devour more than they should."

"No doubt you are right. You know what's best," said Scouty. "But, may I suggest that you are also eating enough coconut for two."

"You ought to practice what you preach. Let's put the rest right out of reach. We all have had our share, so let's find something else to do."

"A good idea," Coppy cried. Then by himself, he promptly tried to push the coconut away, where it would be safe and sound.

"Why are you doing that work, son, when to the elephants it is safe?" said Duncy. "I will call the little beast. They'll push the thing around."

And sure enough, the elephants, quite willing to be doing stunts, soon rolled the great big coconut till Scouty shouted, "Whoa!"

"That's far enough. Just leave it there." Then squeaky voices filled the air. "Why are the monkeys yelling?" Scouty asked, "I'd like to know."

"Oh, they're just going to have some fun," said Duncy. "Watch them jump and run. Perhaps they want to pay us for the food we fed them all."

The monkeys then raced down through the trees and hung down by their tails, with ease. "They're very clever," Windy cried. "I hope they do not fall."

The Tynmites watched the monkey's show a while. Then Scouty shouted, "Oh, Where is our little friend, the Midget Man? He has disappeared from sight."

"I think we all should look all around until the funny fellow is safely found. I know I won't be satisfied till I know he's all right." (The Tynmites find the Midget Man, in the next story.)

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — The tremendous majority that the democrats enjoy in the House may be unwieldy and a bit troublesome at times, but there are occasions when Joe Byrns, the majority leader, and his aid must breathe a fervent prayer of thanks that they have it.

An outstanding occasion was just the other day when President Roosevelt's reforestation bill was before the House and about to clear the last legislative hurdle.

When final passage of the measure was in sight, from the Republican side, in the person of Mr. Beedy from Maine, came a point of order that struck at the very heart of the bill. Beedy's contention was that the method by which the money to finance the proposed project was to be raised was illegal.

The rules of the House left no choice to the presiding officer. They clearly upheld Beedy and the chair so declared.

Rules To Order

The chair's ruling had the effect of rendering the bill useless. Without money the President's plan couldn't possibly be made to operate.

Byrns, however, swung into action. He gathered his aids about him in a hasty consultation and then things began to happen. First, he asked and got a recess for 10 minutes.

Out of the chamber scurried members of the Rules committee to their regular meeting place one floor above. There a special rule was quickly whipped into shape. This was at 5:42 p. m. At 5:52 p. m. they were back on the floor ready to proceed.

The special rule, which had the effect of abrogating the chair's previous order, required a two-thirds vote to pass. Such action required about two minutes.

Were They Napping?

At first glance it would appear that the democratic leaders had been caught napping.

It's hard to believe, however, that such congressional veterans as Byrns and Rainey would have overlooked such a vital thing as that. That such a point of order would be raised they must have foreseen.

What really happened, perhaps, is this: They knew that the bill would be passed overwhelmingly. Resort to such strategy; arm methods as bringing in special rules for legislation invariably causes the cry of "gag" to be raised. The

DAILY HEALTH

RHEUMATIC FEVER—II

Children suffering from rheumatic fever are sensitive to skin injections of extracts made from hemolytic streptococci.

When they are injected into the skin of a child known to suffer from rheumatic fever, there develop about the site of injection swelling and redness.

This type of reaction is not witnessed as frequently nor to the same degree in those who neither are suffering nor have suffered from rheumatic fever.

From the foregoing observations the conclusion has been drawn that the symptoms of acute rheumatism are not due to the direct effects of the streptococcus germ upon the body tissues, as is the case, for example, in a boil.

The body reactions in rheumatic fever, according to this hypothesis, are more in the nature of a sensitization response, similar to that which is witnessed in hay-fever or in asthma.

In other words, the symptoms of acute rheumatism are said to be due to the body's sensitiveness to the proteins and protein products of the streptococci germs rather than to the direct destructive effects of the germs.

On the basis of these convictions a new mode of treatment has been instituted for the control of rheumatic fever.

It is possible, as we know from hay-fever, asthma and other sensitization diseases, to desensitize certain patients; to render them, in other words, less acutely responsive to the provoking proteins.

An attempt is therefore being made to also desensitize rheumatic fever patients. The treatment consists of intravenous injections of vaccines made from the killed hemolytic streptococci germs.

This method of treatment is still

Dawn Over the Atlantic

Wearily rising and falling on the gray waves, only patches of wreckage met the eyes of coast guard and navy flyers as they dared the lowering fog to skim the very surface of the sea in the search for their lost comrades. The heroism of the men who risked their lives in the hope of saving others from the wrecked airship was a bright spot in the tragic story of the Akron. Artist Krenz has here pictured a coast guard plane skimming over the site of the wreck.

Schumm of Dixon, Herbert Parker of West Brooklyn, Newell McNabb, H. A. Eastabrook and E. D. Stitzel of Nelson last Wednesday. Bridge followed the luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spencer and Mrs. Annie Brierton of Dixon were callers at the M. C. Stitzel home Sunday afternoon.

The road is long and rough to the establishment of stability in exchange values to measuring currencies in terms of commodities.

Unless the countries of the world can trade freely with one another and the surplus of one can be used through the channels of trade and investment to increase the productivity of others, each country will have to remain more dependent on itself and the state of the world will become as unfortunate as the condition of a community where individuals cannot trade with one another or lend or borrow between themselves.

A stable level of exchange provides the most healthy condition for production and trade and the employment for capital. Large changes in the exchange value of currency are an evil to be avoided so far as possible but if a large exchange be preferable to establish stability at the new level of this course will shorten the present period of uncertainty.

A huge volume of debt, both public and private, has been contracted since the World War at a time of inflated prices and if the principal and interest have to be paid at a time when commodity prices stand at a level, which is but a fraction of their former value, then the charge becomes a multiplied charge on the productive capacity of the debtors concerned and the burden so created is heavier than the debtor can pay. What can be done—who knows?

FORDHAM WILL LEAD DIXON H. S. TRACK TEAM

Is Chosen Captain Last Evening By Track Letter Men

With the outdoor work starting this week the Dixon high school track lettermen met last evening after practice to choose their 1932 captain. Lyle Fordham was named as leader. The other letter holders are Smith, Strong, Williams, Weldman, Beech, Daniels, seniors; Padgett, Planingam and Ramsey, juniors.

Fordham's award last year was his first track letter. He received a letter for basketball in the 1931-32 campaign and was on the first squad during the past season. In football the "Flash" was signal-caller on the 1931 N. C. I. C. championship eleven and performed at fullback during the 1932 season. Fordham scored the necessary points in the hurdles and the discus to warrant a letter.

Last Monday the first outside practice was held and the coaches are now awaiting warmer weather to determine the local chances of another great outfit, such as the one of last year. The 1932 track and field squad was undefeated in dual competition besides copping the North Central trophy. Ogan and Strong represented Dixon in the state interscholastic meet at Champaign.

Some heavy losses were suffered at graduation time. Ogan, 32 captain, and leading scorer of the season, completed his four-year term. He set a new sectional record at Preopert of 161 feet, 10 inches in the javelin. Talty, speedy quarter miler and a mainstay on the relay crew; Compton a half-miler and Schildberg, hurdler, graduated. Condon, a freshman, who was the 100-yard dash champion last year in the N. C. meet, is now attending an Oak Park high school.

To offset these losses Coaches Bowers, Sharpe and Lindell have the largest squad ever to turn out for the spring sport. At this early date very little can be said of the ability of the newcomers. However, the ten returning veterans will be a nucleus for a strong team. Smith has experienced tough luck in his final year, receiving a severe knee injury in football. The possibility of his being able to perform this year is slight.

Strong will probably see a lot of work, especially in the high and broad jumps, with a little sprinting and javelin tossing on the side. Williams and Padgett compose a sweet pair of distance men although the former probably will work at the 440 yard dash. Padgett will be after his third letter in the mile and half mile runs.

In the weight events Daniels and Weldman are the leaders. Daniels' former is a shot-putter. Daniels' work with the discus has kept him among the leaders in this section. Beech earned his award last year in the pole vault. Planingam surprised last season with his sprinting and should cause some attention in these ranks. Ramsey is a distance man.

These lettermen will have plenty of support from the other candidates. With this material it is probable that a repetition of last spring's success is in the offing.

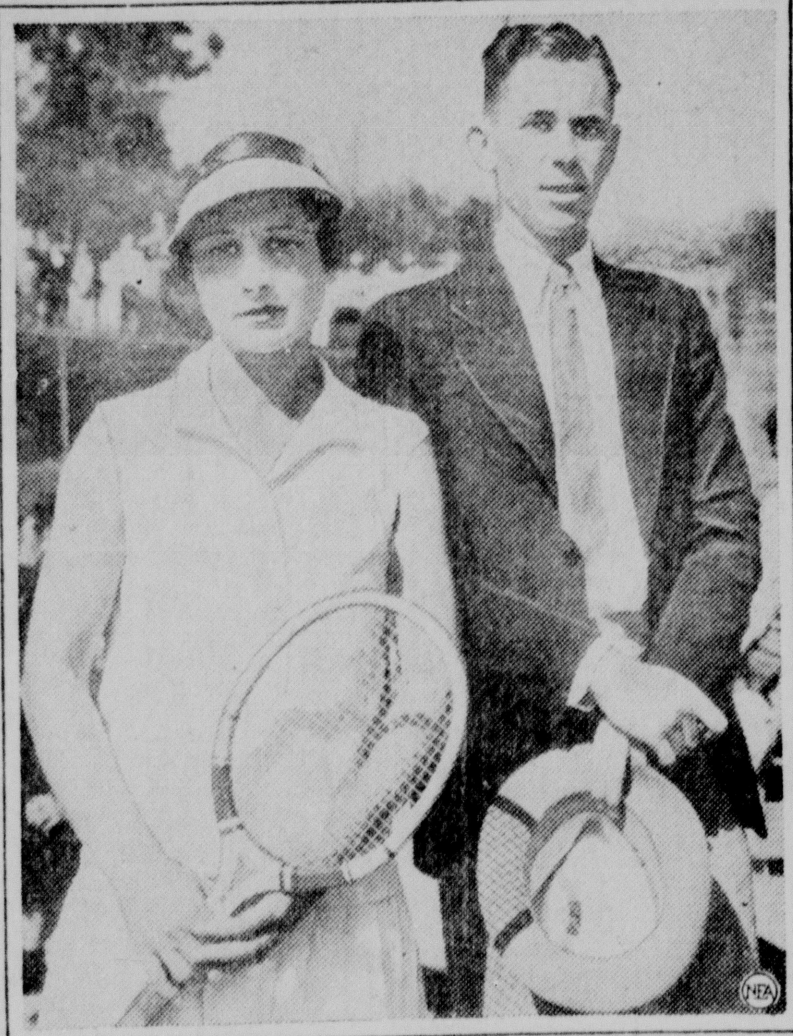

The schedule:
April 19, 20, 21—Class meet.
April 23—Mendota (here)
May 6—N. C. I. C. meet at Mendota.

May 13—State Dist. at Preopert.
May 16—Sterling (here)

Dual meets with Mt. Morris-Tampico.

Hooks and Slides

By Bill Braucher
WHITE HOUSE TROPHIES

A polished hoof of old Ironhorse, winner of the English Derby more than a half century ago, has been placed beside the mounted tail of the 70's, in President Roosevelt's trophy exhibits at the White House.

If the citizens continue to send the president parts of various horses, it might reach a stage where a complete horse can be assembled. If it were a jackass, spare parts might be found right in Washington to complete the jigsaw.

FIRST TO COP DERBY

But there are heroic stories connected with the two specimens now on exhibit, and let us leave off discussion of jackasses. Ironhorse, the property of the tobacco king, Pierre Lorillard, was the first American-owned horse to win the classic at Epsom Downs. Lorillard, whose great breeding farm was at Jocktown, N. J., was famous on two continents, and came to be regarded as the turf miracle man of his time. In 1881, when Ironhorse won the Derby, Lorillard led the list of money-winners in Britain.

Ancient writers of turf affairs admired Gloster, the property of James Roosevelt, father of the President, as one of the most wonderful trotting horses the world had seen. Gloster was a son of Volunteer-Black Bass. His sire was owned by Alden Goldsmith who also owned the famous Goldsmith Maid, undefeated for five years and winner of more than 350 heats.

THAT'S NOT LOAFING

Perhaps the greatest feat of Gloster's career was participation in six races in six weeks on widely separated tracks, in which he trotted 27 heats and won 17 of them, winning purses of $36,000.

Gloster's record of 2:17 was made at Rochester where he trotted four consecutive heats in 2:18, 2:17½, 2:17 and 2:19, one of the finest performances a trotter ever recorded. The record at that time, 1:57.4, held by Goldsmith's Maid.

Gloster was shipped to California to winter late in 1874 and died of a cold caught on the way.

Schmeling being a German, and Baer an American-German-Jew. . . as a mark of respect to Hitler, all of the Jewish tribes in New York will attend hoping to see Schmeling's ears knocked off. . . JUNIOR LEAGUE HAS MARGIN OF 6 GAMES TODAY

The National League Has Chance To Over-take Rivals

New York, April 5 —(AP)—With only a week more to go, the American League boasts a six-game margin over the National in 50 inter-league exhibition games this spring.

A tabulation of results today showed 22 victories for the American League against 22 for the National. A score more games remain before the clubs get down to the serious business of deciding the major league pennant races and the National League may succeed in overhauling their rivals from the junior circuit.

The New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers have been the principal winners for the American League. The world champion Yankees have won eight games out of 12 from National League rivals while the Red Sox and Tigers each have won four and dropped two.

Not one club in John Arnold Heydler's loop has succeeded in getting better than an even break against the American League although four of them, the Cubs, Pirates, Dodgers, and Giants, have amassed .500 averages.

A's Lost Most

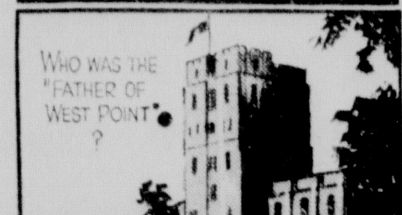

The Philadelphia Athletics have lost the most games in the inter-league series, eight, but offset that with seven victories, more than any other club, except the Yanks. In the tabulation of all major league results whether inter or intra-league, Cleveland's Indians remain the only undefeated team. The Indians chalked up victories over Washington in the only two games they've played against major league opposition. The New York Giants have won the most games of this class, 10, while the Boston Braves have lost the most, 11.

Taking into account all games, whether involving major or minor league opponents, Detroit has the best record with 11 victories and two defeats. The St. Louis Browns with 10 and 3 and Cleveland with 13 and 4, stand second and third, respectively.

The tabulation of results follows:

	Win	Loss	Major
Yankees	8	4	3
Red Sox	4	2	4
Tigers	4	2	4
Browns	3	2	3

Giants	4	4	10

THROAT-CUTTING BARRED BY NEW YORK RING BODY

The Commission Takes A Hand In Battle Of Big Promoters

New York, April 5 —(AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission has taken a hand in the promotional duel between Jack Dempsey and Madison Square Garden and insisted that there be no "throat-cutting."

"Boxing can't stand more than three big matches in one summer," said General John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, yesterday as the salons allotted dates for the outdoor season. "We're going to insist that no major cards be staged within 20 days of each other. Furthermore the promoters must apply for sanction at least 20 days before the date scheduled for any fight."

Phelan explained the commission's stand after Dempsey had confessed he had been a little premature in asking, and receiving, sanction to stage his Max Baer-Max Schmeling bout on June 1. Dempsey now discovers that neither the Polo Grounds nor the Yankee Stadium will be readily available for boxing on that date.

The Giants will be at the Polo Grounds May 31, giving the old Manassa Mauler little time to convert the field into a boxing arena while the Yankees will be at the Stadium June 2, leaving Dempsey with no place to go in the event rain should force postponement of the match June 1.

Notwithstanding these developments, the Commission awarded Dempsey June 1, a Thursday, for his big bout and every Wednesday night thereafter, while the Garden was given all the other Thursdays prime night of the week for outdoor fistcuffing.

Gen. Phelan was asked whether, in the event Dempsey decided not to use the June 1 date, it would automatically revert to the Garden which then might shove in its heavyweight title bout between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera.

"I can answer that only indirectly," he replied. "You know as well as I do that Sharkey couldn't be ready to fight anybody by June 1. Anyway, we're going to insist that these big matches be conducted on a business-like basis and there will be no throat cutting."

OPPOSITION TO DIRIGIBLES IS MOUNTING TODAY

Akron Disaster Causes Uncertainty By Some Congressmen

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—Mounting determination to end naval airship construction spread today through a Congress intent upon finding the real causes of the Akron's plunge into the Atlantic.

At the same time the Navy pressed its search for the water-skiing hope dwindled to a slim thread—to find any possible survivors and locate bodies. President Roosevelt and the Navy's highest officers were in close touch, the while extolling the splendid service of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and other victims and grieving over the crash of the Navy blimp J-3, a searching craft.

In the Senate, King (D. Utah) prepared a resolution calling for an investigation of the Akron disaster and for consideration of the advisability of spending more than $20,000,000—plus that the Navy already has invested in lighter-than-air craft, Chairman Trammell of the Senate Naval committee also was considering a study of the accident.

In the House, as he made ready for a separate probe, Chairman Vinson of the Naval committee remained steadfast in his decision that "there won't be any more airships built."

Demand Suspension

Others rapidly joined in the rising chorus, demanding that the United States do as Great Britain did after the R-101 crashed in France in October, 1930—suspend construction of airships.

Among the recruits was Rep. McClintock (D. Okla.), an instigator of the House Naval committee investigation a year ago that finally found the Akron free of faulty materials or poor workmanship.

There were some, however, not so ready to yield beliefs founded during many years in Congress.

Many had followed Representative Britten of Illinois, who as Republican chairman of the Naval committee for years had charge of the recent legislation for airships, particularly that authorizing the $8,000,000 Akron-Macon sisterships.

Britten was in Florida for a short rest, but his friends recalled that after previous airship accidents he had declined to support those who thought lighter-than-air craft should be abandoned.

Many Undecided

Many members were undecided how far they wanted to go in their ban on airships. Vinson said he thought nothing should be done to prevent operation of the Macon, which is to take the air toward the end of the month. Nor did he think that the new dirigible base at Sunnyvale, Cal., where around $4,000,000 has been expended, should be shut down.

There were some indications that the Los Angeles, now out of commission, might be placed back in service after a time, instead of being sold, and stationed at Sunnyvale, with the Macon taking the Akron's place at Lakehurst. But with Vinson's determination to halt the construction of any new airships, eventual abandonment of both Lakehurst and Sunnyvale would follow when the two remaining ships went out of service for age or other reasons.

Vinson agreed with Secretary Swanson that the money expended in recent years on airships might well go to other naval forces.

"We don't want to put our eggs all in one basket, and we don't want any of the baskets to be airships," he told newspapermen. "We should maintain a well-rounded fleet with its airplanes and ships."

Lucas, a Democrat and a brother of Scott Lucas, chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission, was swept out of office with a majority of other Democrats by a strong Republican vote.

In Chicago run-off elections in five wards resulted in Democrats unseating two aldermen and retaining another seat to strengthen their hold in the city council to 38 seats to 12 for the Republicans.

Aldermen Walter W. Morris and John J. Hoellen were defeated by Harry E. Perry and Albert F. Schulz, while James C. Moreland, Republican, and John P. Healy, Democrat, were re-elected. An upset was staged by Arthur G. Lindell, Republican, to defeat his Democratic opponent.

Results from the suburbs showed that Mayor Charles Bartlett of Evanston was re-elected to serve his fifth term and that President Willis McPeckley of Oak Park was being given a stiff race for re-election by G. W. Hales. With all precincts not heard from McPeckley led by less than 200 votes.

In Glencoe August C. Babize claimed a margin of only four votes over Alfred B. Smith for president of the village board. President William B. Moulton of the Winnetka village board was re-elected along with other candidates of the Caucus party.

Berwyn Mayor Won

Unofficial returns from Berwyn indicated that Mayor Frank Novotny, whose garage at the rear of his home was bombed during the campaign, and his Citizens ticket had been victorious. Similar returns from River Forest gave the office of President to Charles F. Baumrucker.

In Joliet Democrats were elected to complete control of Joliet township for the first time in 42 years. Henry O. Grassie was elected Supervisor over his Republican opponent Charles Lauth and Martin Gleason was chosen Town Clerk.

The same occurred in Rock Island the result was just the opposite. Republicans taking all offices. Rock Island will elect a mayor April 18.

Dr. John A. Ascher, once a state Senator in Nevada, was elected Mayor of Fremont, defeating former Mayor George Edler by 1428 votes. Both campaigned on nonpartisan tickets.

Dall Becomes Grain Trader

Curtis Dall, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, is shown above inspecting ticker tape in his offices as a member of the Chicago Board of Trade. He is the board's newest member, and will conduct a brokerage business in stocks and grains.

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—A gathering of leading statesmen of the world at Washington within the next few weeks to exchange views with President Roosevelt on pressing economic matters, and probably including war debts, appears as a distinct possibility.

Scattered hints and fragments of information dropped in London, Paris and Washington led to a growing belief today that Norman H. Davis, Roosevelt's special ambassador-at-large, in Europe, is laying the groundwork for such a history-making conclave.

The name of Ramsay MacDonald, British Prime Minister, is heard both here and in London as a likely visitor to Washington soon, perhaps at the head of the British war debt delegation which Roosevelt said many weeks ago he would receive.

It was MacDonald who came here before the London Naval conference and in a simple, unpretentious meeting with President Hoover on the banks of the Rapidan paved the way for Anglo-American cooperation at that conference.

France Not Won

As later developments proved, the French had not been sufficiently won over and the agreement reached at London ultimately included only Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

That Roosevelt is running no risk of such an occurrence in preparing for the world economic conference—set for London in early summer—was indicated by a report from Paris that Davis has proposed to Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour that his country be represented in economic conversations here. The dispatch which called it a meeting of an international committee gave the first indication that the Roosevelt administration is considering a gathering of world chiefs to discuss ways of improving the success of the economic conference, aimed at restoring international trade by reducing or removing excessive tariffs and other commercial barriers.

How many other nations would figure in such a Washington gathering has not been disclosed.

FRANCE REPRESENTED

Paris, April 5.—(AP)—An initial world economic conference will be held in Washington under arrangements being made during the present tour of European capitals by Norman H. Davis, United States Ambassador-at-large.

France has joined Great Britain in agreeing to send representatives to the American Capital for the meeting, at which all countries could be represented.

The purpose would be to make final preparations for the general world economic conference which is being planned for London within a few months.

It was said in American quarters here that British and American views on the economic conference had been brought closer together by Davis' visit last week-end in London.

In accepting an invitation to send a war debt mission to the United States, Great Britain officially stated more than two months ago that she would be "glad to exchange views on other world economic problems" at the same time, but that decisions on those matters "naturally cannot be reached" before the world conference takes place.

The London Daily Mail said today Prime Minister MacDonald, who is to preside at the London conference, is likely to visit Roosevelt at an early date. It said steps were being taken to send a mission of experts to discuss the war debts problem.

President Roosevelt declared in favor of a discussion of the whole range of world problems, and not only of the war debts. The discussions of debts, however, was limited to countries which paid in installments last December, which did not include France.)

Acton, a section of London which once contained more than 300 laundries, now has 270 factories engaged in other industries. Acton was once called the "laundry" of London.

Approximately 29,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents in the United States in 1932, a decrease of 13 per cent from 1931.

Sketch Visualizes Akron Sea Tragedy

This graphic bird's-eye drawing by Staff Artist Krenz shows the area on the Atlantic coast where the U. S. S. Akron, pride of the navy and the world's largest airship, fell into the sea 13 miles off Barnegat City while on a test cruise from its base at Lakehurst, N. J., to the New England coast. Rescue ships and planes started for the scene of the disaster: from many points when the radio on the German tanker Phocbus flashed the first news of the stark drama of the darkened sea after picking up several survivors. The Phocbus is shown standing by the wreck of the airship while other craft hurry to the scene.

It is just a little bit hard to see why reviewers have been waxing so indignant over Tiffany Thayer's new book, "An American Girl." To be sure, "An American Girl" is wilfully smutty, and its taste is not improved much by the leer with which it is presented; but after all, as somebody once said, no one goes to a burlesque show expecting to see a Sunday School performance, and by the same token, nobody would buy a book by Mr. Thayer in the belief that he was going to get something along the line of Elsie Dismore.

Mr. Thayer's public, that is, knows what to expect from him by this time. And it must be said that he does not disappoint anyone.
"An American Girl" deals, in a hazy sort of way, with a Hollywood cutie and her adventures. My chief objection to it is not that it is off-color, but that it is just plain dizzy.
In the beginning, Mr. Thayer seems to feel like exposing the various imbecilities of movieland, and he does it very acceptably. Then he rings in an involved Graustarkian romance, wavering uncertainly between melodramatic adventure and satire. He follows that with a hilarious episode in which America's attitude toward visiting royalty is lampooned—and then, evidently in confusion he heads for the bedroom, where his characters and his readers can feel at home. And the whole business really isn't worth your while.

TODAY the Chesterfield trade-mark is very valuable. Back of it is the good will of thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—of smokers.

Chesterfield cigarettes were first manufactured more than twenty-five years ago. At the start, they were sold at a loss, but the quantity sold increased steadily from year to year, until now Chesterfields are sold in great volume at a very small percentage of profit.

The Chesterfield trade-mark, as indicated above, is registered in the United States Patent Office. This means that the United States Government says that only Chesterfield may use this trade-mark for cigarettes.

This is not only for our protection, but for yours as well, because what the Chesterfield trade-mark really means is that you and all Chesterfield smokers will get Chesterfields manufactured under the same formula, by the same people, and in all respects absolutely the same, in every package you buy, year in and year out.

Wherever you buy them, in this or in any other country, you can depend upon the Chesterfield trade-mark.
